

CURRICULUM VITAE

José Luis Díez Ripollés es doctor en Derecho por la universidad de Zaragoza y licenciado en Psicología por la universidad de Barcelona. Es desde 1986 catedrático de Derecho Penal de la Universidad de Málaga (España), emérito desde octubre de 2022, y ha sido director del Instituto andaluz interuniversitario de Criminología en la universidad de Málaga de 1990 a 2017. Profesor o académico invitado en universidades de Alemania, Estados Unidos, Finlandia y Suiza. Miembro de diferentes sociedades académicas internacionales. Vicepresidente de la International Penal and Penitentiary Foundation (IPPF) desde 2014 a 2024. Cofundador del Grupo de estudios de Política criminal en 1989. Doctor honoris causa en diversas universidades extranjeras. Premio Rafael Salillas a criminólogos prestigiosos. Miembro del Consejo Consultivo de Andalucía de 1993 a 2005.

En sus publicaciones predominan asuntos relativos a la política criminal, el derecho penal, la política legislativa penal y la criminología. Se ha ocupado de asuntos relevantes como los delitos sexuales, aborto, eutanasia, drogas, blanqueo de capitales, corrupción urbanística, nuevos modelos de política criminal, política criminal comparada, racionalidad legislativa, videocámaras de prevención delictiva, responsabilidad de personas jurídicas, violencia de género, colectivos identitarios, entre otros. Es autor de un manual de Derecho penal. Parte general, que está en su 5ª edición.

José Luis Díez Ripollés has a Doctoral Degree in Law for the University of Zaragoza (1981) and an Undergraduate Degree in Psychology for the University of Barcelona (1973). Professor of Criminal Law at the University of Málaga since 1986, emeritus since 2022, he has been founder and Director of the Andalusian Interuniversity Institute of Criminology at the University of Málaga from 1990 to 2017. Visiting professor or scholar at universities from Germany, United States, Finland, and Switzerland. Member of different international academic associations. Vice-president of the International Penal and Penitentiary Foundation (IPPF) from 2014 to 2024. Cofounder of the think tank, Grupo de estudios de política criminal (1989), a society of Spanish criminal law professors, judges, magistrates, and prosecutors, which reflects, and makes pressure on policy makers, on hot criminal policy issues. Doctor honoris causa from various universities, he was also awarded with the Prize Rafael Salillas of the Spanish Society of Criminology for prestigious criminologists, among other accolades. Member of the Andalusian Advisory Council from 1993 to 2005.

His publications predominantly focus on issues relating with criminal policy, criminal law, criminal law-making and criminology. He has paid attention to such controversial issues as sexual crimes, abortion, euthanasia, drugs, money laundering, urban planning corruption, new models of criminal justice policy, comparative criminal justice policy, rationality in criminal law-making, video surveillance for preventing crimes, corporate criminal liability, gender violence, identity groups, among others. He has a reference handbook on Criminal Law. General Part, 5th edition.